France Desires To Make His Reinstatement Part Of The National Holiday.

TO BE GIVEN TO LEGION OF HONOR

"Prisoner Of Devil's Island" Will Be Made A Major In The Army And Given Great Honors.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Paris, July 13.—Now that the Supreme Court has decided that Captain Dreyfus was not guilty of the charges made against him that led to his arrest and punishment and that he should be reinstated in the army, all France seems to be vying in doing honor to the man who for twelve years suffered indignities at the hands of his government.

Parliament Closing
As this is the closing day of Parliament and the desire of the nation seems to be to pay extra honor on the nation's birthday to Dreyfus, the chamber of deputies this morning met at nine to take up plans for the rehabilitation of Alfred Dreyfus, so that tomorrow will see him returned to the army and the official ennoblement of the stain placed upon his good name wiped out.

Etienne's Plans
When Minister of War Etienne announced that he greatly desired the chamber to hasten the work on the Dreyfus case, he was greeted with cheers. Two bills were immediately presented. One asked that Captain

FIFTEEN DAYS IN JAIL OR $6 FINE

Was George Lamphier's Sentence in Municipal Court This Morning.

Other Cases.
George Lamphier, a well-known Janesville man who resides in River-view Park, was arrested by Officer Morrissey last evening on complaint of several young girls to the effect that he persisted in following them. In municipal court this morning a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct was preferred against him and he pleaded guilty to the same. The court gave him his choice of paying a fine and costs amounting to $6.10 or spending 15 days in the county jail and the likelihood seemed to be that he would undergo the short imprisonment. An action against Frank Miller for drunkenness was adjourned one week. W. H. Hightower was given four days in jail for the same offense.

DEPARTMENT CALLED OUT INTO COUNTRY

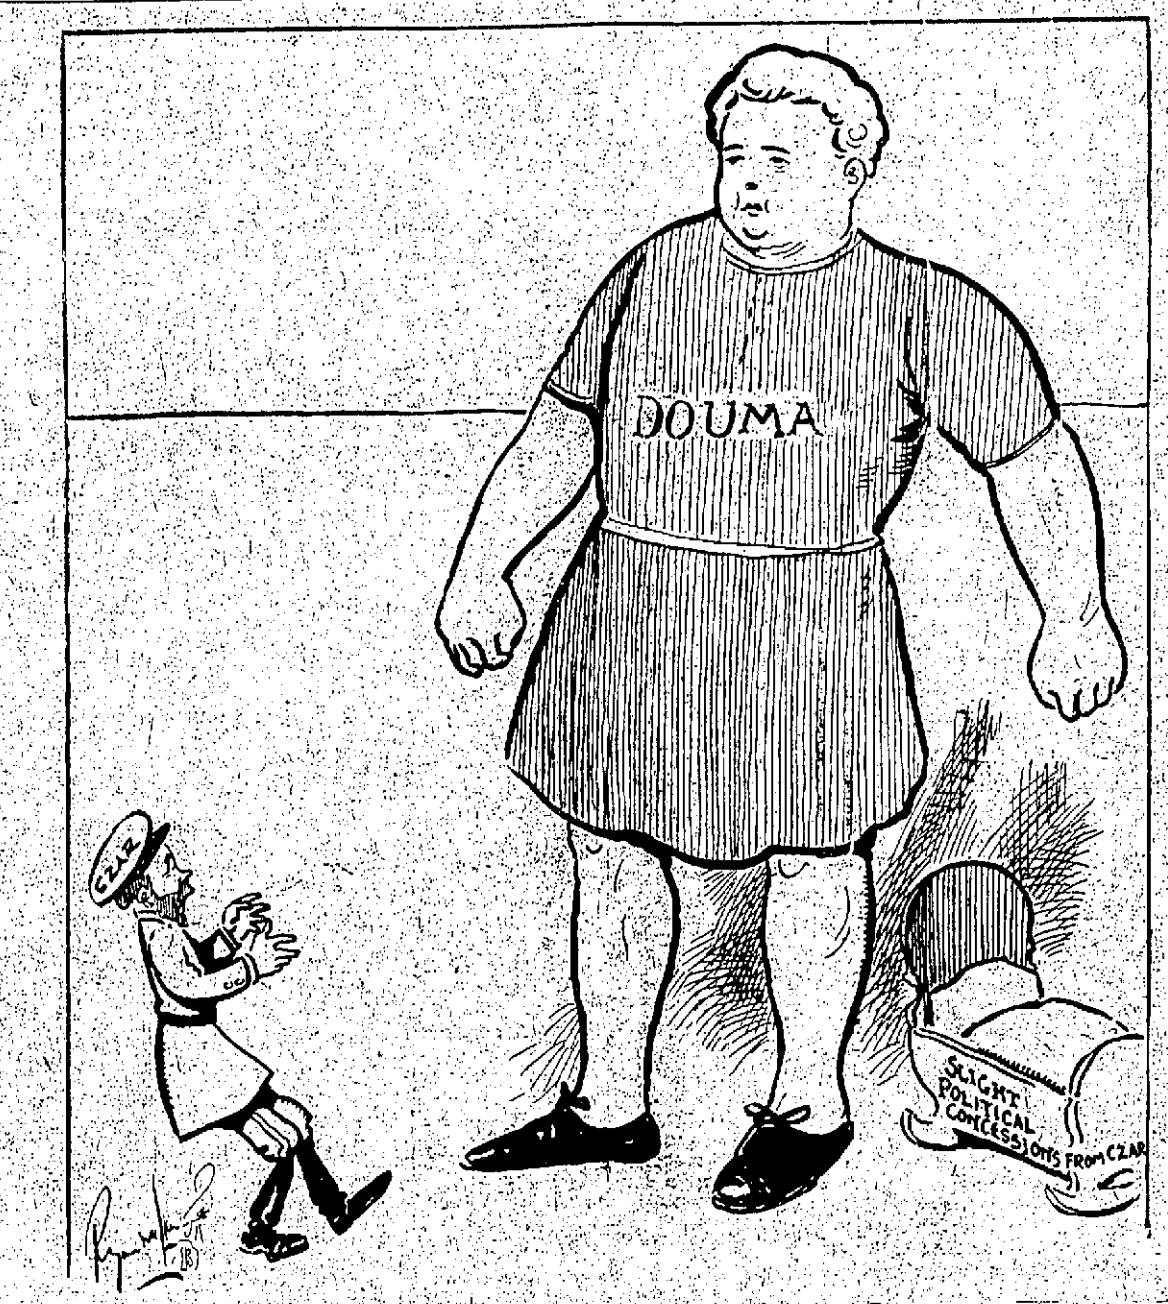

Barn On Farm Of James Kelly, South Of City, Burned And House In Danger.

While the barn was fast being consumed by flames, the house on the farm of James Kelly, south of the city, was saved from burning this morning by the use of chemicals from the Janesville fire department wagons. The conflagration started shortly before ten o'clock and about half past ten an alarm was sent in from near the Choate-Hollister furniture factory. The department responded and after a long wild race found the scene of trouble to be a mile beyond the city limits and a mile and a half from the nearest hydrant. The barn was a total loss and only an effort was made to save the house. It is estimated that the damage will total between eight and nine hundred dollars.

CLAIM INDIAN BILL EX-POST-FACTO LAW

Writ of Mandamus Against Commissioner Who is Executing Last Appropriation Measure.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Muskogee, I. T., July 13.—A writ of mandamus against Tams Bixby, as commissioner of the Five Civilized Tribes, filed by Irwin Donovan, to compel Bixby to restore him to the rolls of attorneys and agents permitted to practice before the commission and to desist from further interference, came up for hearing today in the United States court. The case is intended to test the clause of the Indian appropriation bill approved June 21, which prevents attorneys who have been, are, or may be employed by the Dawes commission, from practicing before the commission within two years from the time they ceased to be employees of the government. Donovan states in his petition that he and his partner left the employ of the commission January 8, and that it is unconstitutional to exclude the firm for the reason that they are punished for something done prior to the passage of the act which they contended was unjust and that such punishment would be prohibited by the constitution.

THREE MEN DIED IN DYNAMITE EXPLOSION

Shanty of Construction Company Is Blown Up—Greeks and Italians Dead.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, July 13.—Three men were blown to pieces and several badly injured, three fatally, by a terrific explosion of dynamite early today, which wrecked the shanty of the McLaughlin stone quarry at Bellwood, north-west of Chicago. The explosion is believed to be the result of a plot. Part of the body of one man was taken from a tree a hundred feet from the shanty. The killed and injured were Greeks and Italians, who were asleep in the shanty at the time of the explosion.

An official of the McLaughlin company believes the motive for blowing up the shanty was robbery, as the men were known to have had considerable money, which is now missing.

URUGUAY SUMMONS DANIEL E. SALMON

Head of Animal Industry Bureau at Washington Accepts Office of South American Republic.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Washington, D. C., July 13.—The Republic of Uruguay is small and cuts little figure in the course of world events, but it has shown enterprise worthy of emulation in securing the services of Dr. Daniel E. Salmon to come to that country and organize a bureau of animal industry. European governments have shut out live cattle from Uruguay and that government looks to Dr. Salmon to take such measures as will restore its foreign market. Dr. Salmon is the man for the place, in the opinion of all who are acquainted with his career and achievements. For a quarter of a century Dr. Salmon was connected with the United States department of agriculture, and when the bureau of animal industry was established in 1884 he was placed at its head. He is an honorary associate of the Royal college of veterinary surgeons of Great Britain, a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, has been chairman of the committee on animal diseases and animal foods of the American Public Health association, and president of the United States Veterinary Medical association. Dr. Salmon will go to South America about December 1. It is likely that he will take with him a number of United States cattle experts as his assistants. During his services in Uruguay he will receive $6000 a year in gold and his living expenses.

"NO CHORE BOY JOB" FOR WILLIAM DEMSTER HOARD

Ex-Governor Refuses To Listen To Plan That He Make Run For Congress.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., July 13.—"Not for mine. No chore boy job for me," said ex-Governor William Demster Hoard of Port Jackson yesterday to Governor James O. Davidson at the executive office in the capitol, speaking of the proposal that the former governor accept the nomination for congressman in the second Wisconsin district for the seat vacated by the death of Henry Cullen Adams. Governor Davidson told Mr. Hoard that the people of this district were clamoring for him to take the republican nomination for Mr. Adams' seat, which nomination in this district means election, but the former governor replied with emphasis characteristic of his vocabulary: "I can't have anything to do with this state."

It would not take the office if it were handed to me on a platter of gold. I am getting to be an old man and will live in peace for the rest of my days. I have done enough in the way of holding public office, so that I can afford to refuse to go to Washington and be the chore boy for a lot of fellows back here who want to be postmasters or who have other axes to grind.

Mr. Hoard was governor of Wisconsin from 1899 to 1891 and was defeated for re-election by George W. Peck of "Peck's Bad Boy" fame, on account of the Bennett compulsory education law, which was taken up by Germans and Catholics as the chief issue. He is a practical farmer and one of the best known and most popular men of the state.

DEMOCRATS CRIPPLED IN CONGRESSIONAL CAMPAIGN

Hearst At Outs With National Committeemen And Senator Bailey, The Most Brilliant Orator In Party.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York, July 13.—With the present week the campaign for the control of the next congress has begun in earnest, and politicians and business men are discussing the outlook with no little interest. While the republicans have a majority in the present house in excess of one hundred members and are, therefore, reasonably certain of retaining control in the Sixtieth congress they evidently intend not to take anything for granted.

The republican campaign committee has established its headquarters again in the St. James building in this city. Members of the committee say the republican campaign will be made on the record of the Roosevelt administration and the session of congress just closed. Thousands of political pamphlets will be circulated and the spellbinders will be kept busy in all sections where the result of the election is at all in doubt. The speakers have been instructed to make much of the enactment of a rate bill, a pure food law, a meat inspection law, and a law removing the tax from denatured alcohol.

The democratic congressional campaign is being conducted from headquarters in Washington, though it is probable that a branch office may be opened here soon. The western headquarters already have been established in Chicago. The democrats will conduct their campaign under a great handicap. The course pursued by Hearst has alienated Taggart and so friends of the national committee, so that the latter body may be expected to take little or no active part in aiding the congressional campaign. Senator Bailey also is at outs with the New York editor and consequently the democratic congressional campaign probably will be minus the ablest speaker they could put out.

On the whole, it appears that the democratic candidates for congress will have to depend on a "go-as-you-please" campaign. The oldtime leaders express the opinion that notwithstanding the jealousy that has entered the organization, the average democratic nominee for congress will be able to put up a good fight.

The democrats have decided that the tariff shall be made the main issue, not free trade, but revision of the Dingley law in a way that will correct some of the inequalities of the law.

Neither of the campaign committees has yet made up a list of the so-called doubtful districts—the district in which the real fight is to be conducted. With the possible exception of Massachusetts will be treated to a feast of oratory this fall. The most finished stump-speakers of both parties will tour the state and Massachusetts probably will be the most fiercely debated ground of any state of the union.

Some concern is felt by the republicans over conditions in several of the western states, that heretofore have been looked upon as the real strongholds of the dominant party. Michigan is expected to return her twelve republican representatives to the lower house, but the factional issues in Wisconsin, South Dakota and several other states necessitate careful attention on the part of the republican campaign managers. The republicans are not worrying over conditions in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois or Minnesota. In all of these states, however, the democrats are of the opinion that they will be able to make gains in their congressional representation. Particularly is this the case as regards Ohio and Minnesota, both of which states upset calculations at their last elections by choosing democratic governors.

The Pennsylvania situation is worrying the republican campaign committee. Of the thirty-two members of the present house from that state only one is a democrat. But the fusion of the Lincolmites, or independent republicans, and the democrats on the state ticket is believed to bode ill for the success of the regular republicans at the election this fall.

The congressional campaign managers of both parties will have to worry along short of funds this year. The Tillman bill to prohibit corporations from contributing to the election of federal congressmen did not become a law, and the bill to make campaign contributions and expenditures public was smothered, but members of the campaign committee have already found that they are to have great difficulty in raising a very large campaign fund. The insurance disclosures undoubtedly frightened many of the contributors, and public sentiment makes it next to impossible for many corporations that heretofore have contributed liberally to "loosen up." It is the hope of some of the republican campaign managers, however, that a "standpat" campaign on the tariff will result in voluntary contributions from interests that are anxious to "let well enough alone." The mails as usual will be burdened with tons of political speeches, for the legislation to make it unlawful to use franks of members of congress in sending this campaign matter through the mails failed.

VIOLIN MAKER OF PROMINENCE

JANESVILLE HAS ONE NOTED

MANUFACTURER LIVING HERE.

CHARLES WHEELER'S WORK

Takes Six Weeks to Complete One Instrument by Hand-Skillful

Work.

Violins of quality used by the great masters are not manufactured in factories by large machines, but are made by hand after long days of hard tedious toil. Hundreds of instruments are turned out in American shops each year, though they are cheap and lack in tone the true music-producing power. The best violins were made in Italy and Germany, but the larger part of the work of the old masters has perished with the strife of ages.

There are still numerous makers of hand-made violins abroad. America harbors but few. Janesville happens to be the home of one of these.

Made by Hand

Mr. Charles C. Wheeler, who lives in his shop over a grocery store on North Main street, is a man whose three score years of age. He has been in the business of making handmade violins for the last thirty-five years and many of his well-made instruments are distributed all over this country. From Mr. Wheeler's boy-hood he seemed to have a knack for woodwork and the eight years which he spent on the railroad after leaving his country home only led to his desire for the making of violins. Failures he had by the score, but he has stuck to his work until the instruments which he now makes bring him large sums. "Through the summer months he uses his sensitive ear in the tuning of pianos, but in the winter he goes back to his work at the bench and during the season makes several master instruments.

Repairs Instruments

Mr. Wheeler also repairs the violins which have been cracked or broken and when he gets hold of a well made violin made by an artist he studies it closely. He notes how the maker shaped it to get the tone. This he remembers until the next one he makes and he improves his new make. Several designs are made by him from the Italian and German graduation, but his favorite model is that of Carlo Bergonzi, an Italian.

He now has a couple of these models in stock and is unwilling to part with them.

Six Weeks' Time

In the making of a violin he spends about six weeks. He buys the choicest lumber he can get from a firm in Boston. One would not think in looking at a violin the amount of work that is done upon it before it is put on the market. The thickness must range from less than a sixteenth of an inch in one place to about three sixteenths in another. The back and face are not bent into shape, but must be cut and dug out to the required thickness and shavings are taken off that are less than a hundredth of an inch, so that one side will not be thicker than the other. Tools are used by him that are sharper than ordinary tools can be ground.

An Expert

Mr. Wheeler not only knows the make and style of every violin-maker's violin, but knows the history of all the great masters and their students and can tell at once their time and habitation by looking at an instrument. While enthusiastically explaining the merits of his violins he will draw forth a few tones that only the best of musicians could accomplish.

...FORTY YEARS AGO...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday, July 13th, 1886—Man Drowned.—Last evening between seven and eight o'clock a man named Wendall P. Wakefield was drowned in Rock river, a short distance above the bridge. He went in bathing while he was very warm, and it is supposed was taken with cramps. Others were bathing with him, but they thought Mr. W. was playing, while in fact he was struggling to save his life, and went down before their eyes. To rise no more. He had but recently come to this city from the vicinity of Boston and was building a house which is not yet completed. He leaves a wife and one child to mourn his untimely death.

The State Fair.—There has been no little doubt as to whether the State Fair would be located here the present season, notwithstanding intimations that the location had already been fixed. We saw yesterday some letters from Dr. Hoyt, the Secretary of the Society, which put this matter entirely at rest provided from $100 to $150 more is raised than is now subscribed. It should be borne in mind by the citizens that the expenditure this year is to put the buildings on the ground in permanent shape, so that hereafter it will require very little outlay to secure the fair here every year. We are sure the people of Janesville will not turn the fair away from here for the trifling sum needed to secure it.

Sun Struck.—An engineer on the C. & N. W. road named Al. Knight was sun struck yesterday near the roundhouse in this city. He was in a very critical condition last night.

OUR AFRICAN TRADE. One of the important branches of the United States government is the Department of Commerce and Labor. This department makes almost daily reports on matters of importance to the manufacturers and shippers of the United States in the shape of trade reports showing the market and the market value of different products in various countries. Africa has long been a debatable ground for the trade of different nations. Up to the present year the United States has kept up its share of the exportation into the Dark Continent but during the last fiscal year appears to have dropped off considerably. Some of Janesville's products are shipped to this continent and the following report will be of interest to many local manufacturers. "Trade of the United States with Africa in the fiscal year 1935, aggregated about 30 million dollars, the smallest total since 1900. The commerce of the United States with that continent reached its highest level in 1903, when the total was $51 million dollars, compared with 30 1/2 millions in 1900, 14 millions in 1895, and 10 millions in 1890. Imports from Africa in 1905 were valued at 11.3 million dollars, an increase of nearly 2 millions compared with the preceding year and of 4 millions compared with 1895. Exports to Africa in 1905 aggregated 18 1/2 millions, against 24 1/2 millions in 1904 and 7 millions in 1895. "The decrease in our exports to Africa is but a reflection of the reduction in its general imports since 1903. Importation into the Cape of Good Hope, the chief commercial section, have decreased from 164 million dollars in 1903 to 94 millions in 1905, a reduction of 70 million dollars in two years. Meanwhile Egypt's imports advanced from 83 million dollars in 1903 to 106 1/2 millions in 1905, but as our trade with that country consists almost exclusively of imports, the growth of 24 millions in Egypt's purchases from foreign countries did not affect the volume of our exportations to that market. While there has been a check in imports into Africa, exports show a growth, those from Cape of Good Hope (including raw gold) having increased from 107 million dollars in 1903 to 143.13 millions in 1905, and those of Egypt from 96 1/2 millions in 1903 to 100.23 millions in 1905, and an even larger growth compared with figures for a decade earlier. The recent falling off in imports as compared with other years, since 1900 would seem to indicate that the extraordinary purchases of machinery, agricultural implements, building hardware, railway, and other material immediately following the resumption of industry at the close of the war have returned to normal conditions; while the enlarged exports are due to increased production and consequent increased exportations of gold and diamonds. Gold production in South Africa has increased from $74,819,000 in 1909, the record year prior to the war, to $108,375,000 in 1905, the highest total ever reached, while evidence of greatly increased diamond production is seen in the fact that diamond exports from the Cape of Good Hope increased from 205 million dollars in 189 to over 31 millions in 1904. "Despite the fact that both imports and exports in our trade with Africa show a decrease in 1905 as compared with the immediately preceding years, the aggregate commerce passing in each direction during the last decade is much larger than for any corresponding period in earlier years. Statistics recently compiled by the Department of Labor through its Bureau of Statistics show that imports from Africa in the ten years ending with 1905 aggregated 105 million dollars, as compared with 58 millions in the preceding decade; and that exports to Africa in the last ten years amounted to 226 millions, against less than 50 millions in the preceding decade. "Of the total of 30 million dollars representing the trade of the United States with Africa in the fiscal year 1905, over 12 1/2 millions was with British South Africa, 2 1/2 millions with British West Africa, 1 1/2 millions with British East Africa, a little over 9 millions with Egypt, 1 1/2 millions with Portuguese Africa, about 1 1/2 millions with French Africa, and the remainder, aggregating less than 1 1/2 millions, with other sections of Africa. "The imports from British South Africa in 1905 were valued at $623,249, of which $318,292, or over one-half, represented feathers and down, and $289,000 hides and skins. A noteworthy feature of our imports is the absence of diamonds, despite the fact that South Africa is the world's greatest diamond producer and the United States is a large importer of diamonds. This anomaly is accounted for by the fact that practically the entire diamond output is shipped direct to Great Britain or to the Netherlands, the chief center of the diamond-cutting industry, and reshipped thence to various countries. "The exports to British South Africa in 1905 were valued at $1,955,193. The principal items were building hardware, machinery, and other manufactures of iron and steel, $2,907,796; refined mineral oils, $1,282,145; flour and other breadstuffs, $1,061,668; provisions, $1,026,134; agricultural implements, $420,034; cars, carriages, and other vehicles, $326,388; boards, deals, etc., $520,290; furniture, doors, sash, and blinds, $513,665; other lumber and manufactures of wood, $412,717; cotton manufactures, $248,000; and chemicals, drugs, etc., $253,891. "From British West Africa imports are inconsiderable, but $16,396 in 1905 and $202,647 in 1903, the largest total in any recent year. The exports to that section in 1905 amounted to $2,223,481, of which rum contributed over half, with $1,127,131, and leaf tobacco $664,367. "Our imports from British East Africa are more than double in value our exports thereto. Of the total imports from this section of Africa, aggregating $953,718 in 1905, $410,974 was spices, $260,900 animal ivory, and $220,000 hides and skins. Of the exports to British East Africa, valued at $469,731 in 1905, the only important item was cotton cloths, $278,920, the remainder of the trade being distributed among a large number of articles ranging in value from $40,000 downward. Considerable quantities of the American cottons exported to the British colony of Aden, on the coast of Arabia, go thence to East Africa, where they are very popular with the natives who designate them as "Americanos." "The importance of Egypt in our import trade rests largely in its value as a source of a certain grade of fine, long-stapled cotton not produced in the United States. Of the total importations from Egypt in 1905, valued at $8,580,751, cotton is credited with $8,193,081, gum arabic, $159,598, is the only additional item in excess of $100,000 in value. Until within recent years the United States had been importing considerable quantities of cane sugar from Egypt, but the revival of the sugar industry in Cuba, beginning with 1903, coupled with the shortage in the Egyptian crop during the past three years, has tended to reduce our imports of sugar from that country, the total having decreased from $3,362,591 in 1899 to $415,551 in 1904 and to nothing in 1905. The exports to Egypt from the United States in 1905 were valued at $752,489, a decrease of about a half million dollars from the figures of 1901 or 1902, when breadstuffs were exported to that country in considerable quantities. Of the exports of last year, iron and steel manufactures were the most important, being valued at $208,352, against $113,845 for refined mineral oils and $150,073 for boards and other manufactures of wood. "Our trade with Portuguese Africa consists almost exclusively of exports, which in 1905 were valued at $1,736,758, compared with but $1,789 of imports. The principal items exported thereto in 1905 were iron and steel manufactures, $391,359; refined mineral oils, $306,496; wheat flour, $170,345; and wood and wood manufactures, $206,961. A large part of this went to the Portuguese colony on the southeastern coast of Africa, and was transhipped thence into the British colonies of Transvaal and Orange River. "From French Africa, exclusive of Madagascar, our imports in 1905 were valued at $625,071, hides and skins being the largest item, with a total of $378,361. To that section of Africa our exports in 1905 were valued at $312,394; leaf tobacco, being set down at $206,711; cotton seed, oil, $164,965; machinery, $114,179; and wood and wood manufactures thereof, $111,497. "The trade of the remaining colonies of Africa is chiefly with the countries by which they are administered; this being especially true of the French colonies of Madagascar, the Congo, which is under the control of Belgium, and the various possessions of Germany, Italy and Spain; their trade with the United States is inconsiderable. Liberia is the only republic on the African continent. Our annual imports therefrom range from $5,000 downward, while our exports thereto in 1905 were $55,309 in value, chiefly foodstuffs, unmanufactured tobacco, and cotton goods. "The total imports into all Africa in 1904, the latest available year, were, as nearly as may be ascertained in the absence of any record for certain tribal countries, in round terms, 405 million dollars, and the total exports, 330 millions, exclusive of gold, of which the amount shipped from South Africa in 1904 was valued at $3 millions. The imports into Africa were chiefly manufactures, and the exports chiefly diamonds, rubber, gums, wool, ostrich feathers, hair, hides and skins, ivory, Egyptian cotton, vegetables, coffee, cacao, palm oil, spices and woods. "Of the imports into Africa, 200 million dollars worth went into British, 115 into French, 107 millions into Turkish (Egypt), 15 millions into Portuguese, 8 millions into German, 6 millions into Belgian territory, and 13 millions into Morocco. Of the total exports, 100 millions went from British, 100 millions from Turkish, 93 millions from French, 12 millions from Belgian, 10 millions from Portuguese territory, and 8 millions from Morocco.

COOL, GREEN SWARD UNDERNEATH TREES

That is the Place the Fortunate Are Seeking While the Mercury Hovers Around 85. Fifty-two ladies of the Women's Relief Corps and neighbors were guests of Mrs. S. S. Shawman at her home, 57 Ruger avenue, yesterday afternoon. The afternoon was devoted to picking berries and flowers and a delicious supper was served at six o'clock. John Shawman was driver of the rig which carried the ladies to their homes in the city about nine o'clock. At a special session last evening the Ben-Hur order initiated a large class of candidates for membership. Deputy Cannon of Ohio took an important part in the degree work. A luncheon and social session which was enjoyed by all present followed the ceremonies. At Crystal Springs park yesterday afternoon a party of ladies played lunch at four tables and partook of a delicious basket luncheon. The trip to the park was made by boat. Cards Mrs. Marie Porter of Freeport won the first prize and Mrs. Frank Gentile the second. The day's outing was enjoyed by Mesdames D. F. Skeely, A. L. Eager, Edward Amerphol, M. Downs, James Buchanan, Charles Lagerman, Phil Ohlweber, Marie Porter, Frank Gentile, Alfred Jerg, Bert Van Houten, W. J. Lawrence, Charles Kneft and G. A. Benke of Milwaukee. Mrs. W. H. Rose, a member of the Baptist church, is entertaining her Sunday school class of fourteen girls at her cottage at Delavan lake. The young people departed for the scene on the Janesville & Southeastern at 5:05 last evening and the outing is to extend over a period of one week. Those in the party are: Ruth Humphrey, Palma Otis, Maud Rose, Mabel and Jennie Crossman, Flora Drake, Isabel Gillingworth, Elva Hayes, Sara Wixom, Ethel Fletcher, Arlie Sutherland and Rhoda Sherman. Mrs. Thomas S. Nolan and daughter, Vera, will join them the first of next week. At the home of Mrs. Andrew Snyder of Footville the members of the Summer Club of Household Economics are enjoying a picnic today. Mrs. Walter Helms and Mrs. F. C. Roessling are to give a demonstration in cooking and this is to be followed by an elaborate picnic dinner on the lawn and a program. Following are the titles of some of the papers to be read: "Household Management," by Mrs. F. C. Roessling; "Chemistry of the Household," by Mrs. Helms; "The Principles of Cooking," by Mrs. E. W. Fisher. The picnic supper has been prepared under the direction of Mrs. H. D. Murdock. Carriages and carriages conveyed the ladies to Footville and will bring them back tonight. Seventy-five enjoyed the Fraternal Reserve Association excursion up the river last evening. The party left the fourth-avenue dock on the steamboat Columbia at eight in the evening and after a trip far upstream returned to Crystal Springs, where a debarkment was made. Refreshments were served there and for a few hours dancers made merry in the pavilion. At twelve-thirty the company steamed for home, with the moon lighting the way and music from the orchestra adding pleasure to the cool river ride. Bye and Bye: The Peat Beds. In Exchange: Almost every state in the union could repeat the announcement of Indiana's assistant state geologist that immense beds of peat exist within the borders of the Hoosier commonwealth. These stores of fuel will be eagerly sought in the future, when coal begins to soar in price, after the style of lumber at the present time. If in want, read the want ads.

FLATH'S HARNESS TALK. MANY a runaway is caused by a poor harness. A poor harness is one that is either worn out or made from defective material. If your harness is this kind, you are endangering the lives of yourself and family every time you go out driving. You meet a street car or automobile; a sudden jump—a broken line and you are helpless, and if you escape death or serious injury, it's simply through good luck. This wouldn't happen if your horse was fitted with one of our harness, as each strap in them is from the best selected leather, tested and guaranteed to stand any strain that can be placed upon them. If people only realized how much of their safety depended upon a well made harness, there would be fewer of the cheap ones bought. Of course, you may save a few dollars at the time, but later on you may suffer a loss that money cannot replace. If your harness is old and worn out. Come in and let us fit you out with one of ours. For from $15 to $18 we will furnish a single harness.... Guaranteed in every respect. $30 to $45 buys a double harness. You may have bought a new harness recently. If so, have it examined carefully to see that there are no weak spots "showing up" or stitches that need replacing. It will pay you to take the trouble. E. F. FLATH Corner South Main and Court Sts. This Proposition Is Now Up

Can we longer afford to overlook the fact that we can secure the very best of dental service at about half the rates we have been paying? Dr. Richards of Janesville, the independent dentist, says he would be delighted to have his work (put out at a modest price) compared with work done by others at possibly double his prices.

He affirms that the comparison will establish the fact that his work is good in every respect. His work is lasting.

His work is done thoroughly. His work is substantial, and, in fact, not excelled by that of any other local dentist.

In addition to the reasonableness of his prices, he gives close attention to painless work. Now see what you get by having him do your dental work.

ARE TO ORGANIZE ON THE OLD PLAN

VICTOR P. RICHARDSON IS CHOS-EN FOR ROCK COUNTY.

AN INTERESTING TIP GIVEN

Lenroot's Campaign Plans Were Discussed by Senator La Follette.

Old Machine Methods.
(Special to this Gazette.)

Madison, Wis., July 13.—On top of the formal announcement that Ex-Governor W. D. Hoard, of Rock County, would support James Davidson for nomination for Governor, the old machinery of the old methods of La Follette are all to be brought into play for the benefit of Lenroot. This latter tale has gained considerable credence here owing to the fact that prominent politicians of undoubted faith in the Senator's word and beliefs have been called in secret session during the past few days.

Carefully Chosen.

Persons who have kept watch on the junior Senator since he arrived here the first of the week report that persons who have had conferences with him have all been carefully selected from all parts of the state.

Among those who had a long conference was V. P. Richardson of Janesville, the recognized La Follette leader of Rock county, who is now said to have been placed in charge of the Lenroot campaign. The absence of State Veterinarian Roberts, J. L. Fisher, G. U. Fisher and D. B. Worthington from the conference was noted and it is speculated that their non-appearance means that Richardson will in the future be looked upon as the La Follette agent in Rock county.

The same is true of other counties where former officeholders under La Follette have expressed allegiance to Davidson.

Look to Legislature.

It is also talked that the Lenroot crowd are making plans to capture the legislature and in every district where even former strong La Follette men are candidates if they have expressed favoritism towards Davidson they are to be met with a fight. This is true of Douglas county, where Senator Hildahl is to be opposed by former Assemblyman Wallace W. Andrew.

As this is true in Milwaukee county particularly. Attention will also be paid to former strong conservative districts and it is whispered that Rock county will see decided opposition to the return of the three assemblymen who seek nomination again.

In strong conservative districts this opposition is to take the form of supporting the democratic nominees and in some districts it will be successful.

Other Gossip.

Hoard's official announcement that he will not be a candidate for Congress leaves the field open to Nelson Holman and George K. Kiser, all of whom are being seriously mentioned. Nomination means election in the district.

Former Congressman Dahle of Mt. Horeb would take the office if it was offered to him, as would La Follette, a candidate four years ago against Adams. Cooper is known to have had several talks with prominent leaders while in Madison for the Adams funeral and a close friend said he was much worried over the outlook at present.

Before leaving Washington he took advantage of the privilege of deluging the district with wall maps, copies of memorial addresses, using them as campaign literature at the expense of the government.

DESCENDANTS OF ONE ANTHONY SHAW

Numbering 31 and Including Four Generations Gathered at Grand Hotel for Reunion Today.

Descendants of Anthony Shaw, who lived with his family of twenty-two children in Stephentown, New York, and died in the year 1812, gathered at the Grand hotel parlors this morning for a reunion.

The gathering came from almost every point of the compass, and the relationship ranged from grandsons to great, great, great grandsons.

D. R. Lewis of Rockford was the patron and organizer of the meeting and Janesville was chosen as the meeting place, owing to the fact that it was central for a number of La Follette and "Broadhead" relatives.

Who are visiting in Broadhead and Milton, who were expected to make the tour of half a dozen neighboring cities before returning to the far west.

Mr. Lewis was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Myrtle L. Pratt and two grandsons, Harvey and William Pratt.

The others present were: Mrs. Emily Gardner Smith of Denver, her daughter, Mrs. Nettie Peterson, her granddaughter, Mrs. J. C. Wasson, and her great-grandson, Master Reid Wasson, all of whom have been visiting in Broadhead since the home gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gardner and daughter, Sadie, and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Gardner and daughters, Maude and Nellie, of Broadhead; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wasson of Albion; Mrs. J. Westcott and daughter, Grace, of Edgerton; Mrs. Edna Briggs Ross of Sioux Falls, South Dakota; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Shaw and daughter, Adeline, of Plainfield, New Jersey, who have been visiting in Milton; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Shaw and Emmett Shaw of Edgerton; and Mr. and Mrs. Edson Shaw of Milton.

After dining together, this noon several hours were devoted to the discussion of old family reminiscences and news of other relatives, scattered to the four corners of earth.

About four o'clock the participants in the eventful gathering began to depart for their various homes and the big happy family of a day disappeared as quietly and unostentatiously as it had assembled.

AWFUL JANGLE FROM FIRE STATION BELL

Made Whole City Wonder About Five O'clock Last Evening—Telephone Linemen Timpored.

About five o'clock last evening the entire city was aroused from a hot weather lethargy by a fire alarm. The taps came in rapid and wild succession and the call seemed urgent. "No, it wasn't an alarm, either—just a fierce jangle of the big bell and little gongs, located at the stations and in the business places and homes of the fire patrolmen. After the clatter had continued for full two minutes the bells were disconnected and an investigation for trouble commenced. It was found that telephone linemen had endeavored to handle the fire alarm wires without permission or assistance from Chief Klein. Different linemen have done this in the past and unless there is a cessation of this abuse steps will be taken to stop the practice.

TRAIN WRECKED BY SPIKE
Miscellaneous Cause Men to Lose Lives in Order to Be Avenged on Railroad.
Petersburg, Ind., July 13.—The wreck of a west-bound freight train on the Southern railroad eight miles west of here at six o'clock a. m. Thursday has resulted in the loss of two lives and thousands of dollars of property to the railroad company.
The freight was making 30 miles an hour when the engine ran into a spiked switch and toppled over. The entire train left the track, demolishing many cars and totally wrecking the engine.
The west end of the switch was also spiked so as to get either the east or west bound train.
The only known motive for the work of the wreckers is all feeling against the railroad by certain persons because the railroad company, which owns the Muren mines, insisted on running their mines during the recent trouble between the operators and miners, but paid the scale price during the entire time.

Washington, July 13.—The Standard Oil's absolute domination over the business in petroleum products has been broken, is the declaration of Charles D. Chamberlin, of Cleveland, head of the National Petroleum association, who is attending the hearing before the interstate commerce commission.

BRYAN ENUNCIATES PARTY PRINCIPLES
DEMOCRATS, HE SAYS, ADVOCATE CONSERVATISM.
DEFINES STAND ON TRUSTS
Does Not Expect Recruits from Ranks of Those Interested in Taking Advantage of People by Illegitimate Methods.
London, July 13.—William J. Bryan having had the opportunity of reading American newspapers, consented Thursday to discuss some of the questions which have been raised since he has again become prominent as a presidential possibility. He said:
"I notice that I am now described by some as conservative, and in order that there may be no misunderstanding on that subject permit me to say that in one sense I always have been a conservative. The Democratic policies are conservative in that they embody old principles applied to new conditions. There was nothing new in principle in either of the platforms on which I stood. We were accused of attacking property when in fact the Democratic party is the defender of property because it endeavors to draw the line between honest accumulation by honest methods on the one side and predatory wealth and immoral methods on the other. It is to the interests of every honest man that dishonesty should be exposed and punished, otherwise the deserving are apt to suffer for the undeserving."
More Radical Than Ever.
"If, however, by the word conservative they mean that I have changed my position on any public question or moderated my opposition to corporate aggrandizement they have a surprise waiting for them. I am more radical than I was in 1896 and have nothing to withdraw on economical questions which have been under discussion."
"The only question we discussed in 1896 upon which there has been any apparent change is the silver question and that has not been a change in the advocates of bimetalism but in conditions. We contended for more money and urged the free coinage of silver as the only means then in sight of securing it. The increased production of gold has brought in part the benefit we expected to secure from the restoration of silver. The per capita volume of money in the United States is almost 50 per cent greater now than it was in 1896 and the benefits by this increase have not only vindicated the quantitative theory of money but have proven the benefits of the larger amount of money. No advocate of the gold standard can claim the triumph of his logic."
Believes in Bimetalism.
"I believe in bimetalism and I believe that the restoration of silver would bring still further prosperity, besides restoring par in exchange between gold and silver-using countries; but I recognize, as do all other bimetalists whom I have met abroad, that the unexpected and unprecedented increase of gold production has for the present removed the silver question as an issue."
"While the money question has waxed in importance other questions have been forcing to the front, and to these questions we must apply the same principles we applied to the money question and seek to secure the greatest good to the greatest number by legislation which conforms to the doctrine of equal rights for all and special privileges for none."
"On the new questions many will act with us who were against us on the money question, for notwithstanding the discussion of that question, millions did not understand it and were frightened into opposition. We cannot expect the support of anyone who is interested in taking advantage of the people either through trusts or through any other illegitimate form of business. Our efforts should be to distinguish between those corporations which are legitimate and those aggregations of wealth which are organized for purposes of public plunder and appeal for support to those only who are willing to have the government protect each person in the enjoyment of his own earnings."
ESCAPE FROM BOAT WRECK
Passengers on the Steamer Quincy Undergo Hardships in Insect Infested Swamp.
La Crosse, Wis., July 13.—Carried on the backs of negro roustabouts, taken from the stern in lifeboats, or jumping into waist deep water at the prow to take refuge in a swamp swarming with insects, the 200 passengers of the steamer Quincy, which was wrecked Wednesday night near Trempealeau, Wis., all have been saved. According to official announcement there was not one death in the accident which threatened so great a catastrophe.
Though nearly all of the passengers lost all of their clothes, many escaping in their night garbs to shiver for hours in a swamp before being taken to La Crosse and Winona, not one was so much as injured.
Nominate Henry Clay Evans.
Nashville, Tenn., July 13.—Henry Clay Evans of Hamilton county, former commissioner of pensions and recently American consul-general in London, was nominated for governor by the Republican state convention.
F. Pennington, second vice president and general manager of the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railroad, was married to Mrs. Alice Sturgis Lawler of St. Paul.

SEVEN CHILDREN DROWNED IN RIVER

LOSE LIVES IN ENDEAVOR TO RESCUE OTHERS.

SLIP FROM YIELDING SAND

Tot Failed to Heed Warning and Plunged Into Deep Water. Her Companions Following in Effort to Pull Her Out.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., July 13.—Eight children at a picnic on the river bank, only three blocks from home, went wading Thursday afternoon. The smallest one slipped into a deep hole in the river and in trying to rescue her six others were drowned. The dead:

- Lucille Sweeting, 7.
- Hazel Sweeting, 14.
- Gladys Sweeting, 10.
- Jessie Sweeting, 12.
- Ruth Coyle, 11, Sioux City.
- Corra Coyle, 9, Sioux City.
- Clara Usher, 16.

The Sweeting children lived with their father near Ellis park, on the outskirts of this city. Clara Usher was a daughter of Sweeting's housekeeper, and the Coyle children were her nieces, who were here on a visit.

How Accident Occurred.

Ruth Kiersey, the only survivor, said they were wading when little Lucille Sweeting slipped off a shelf in the river bottom into a hole. Then the next girl rushed after her. And so they kept trying to save each other until all of the girls except Ruth Kiersey had been drowned.

Four of the bodies were quickly removed from the water, but it was too late to resuscitate them. At four o'clock all of the bodies had been recovered except that of Clara Usher. They were taken home and laid in a row amid the sobbing of hundreds of men and women.

The children had gone to the river with Mrs. Usher, who took her baby. The baby fretted and Mrs. Usher went home with it.

The children immediately went wading in the river. Ruth Kiersey went to the end of a long sand bar and, seeing that the water was deep at the end of the bar, warned the other children. Lucille Sweeting, however, ran to the end of the bar and, the sand yielding, slipped off into seven feet of water. Her cries brought Hazel Sweeting to her aid. In trying to pull Lucille back on the sand bar she too fell into the deep water. Another child went to her assistance and slipped in, and so on until seven of the eight children were in deep water. Some of them drowned helplessly while two or three vainly tried to climb back on the sand bar out of deep water.

Ruth Kiersey, seeing the fate of her companions, then ran down the road crying to Mrs. Usher, overraking her when almost home. Mrs. Usher left her baby in the road and ran back to aid the children. She managed to get hold of the hair of two of them and pulled them out of the water, but it was too late to save their lives.

C. F. Ressegnie, general superintendent of the first district of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, with headquarters at Springfield, has resigned.

CHAPTER III.

OKLEY took the satchel from General Cornish's hand as the latter stepped from his private car.

"You got my note, I see," he said. "I think I'll go to the hotel for the rest of the night."

He glanced back over his shoulder as he turned toward the bus which was waiting for them at the end of the platform.

"I guess no one else got off here. It's not much of a railroad center."

"No," agreed Oakley impartially, "there are towns where the traffic is heavier."

Arrived at the hotel, Oakley led the way upstairs to the general's room. It adjoined his own. Cornish paused on the threshold until he had lighted the gas.

"Light the other burner, will you?" he requested. "There, thanks, that's better."

He was a portly man of sixty, with a large head and heavy face. His father had been a Vermont farmer, a man of position and means according to the easy standard of his times.

When the civil war broke out young Cornish, who was just commencing the practice of the law, had enlisted as a private in one of the first regiments raised by his state. Prior to this he had overworked with fervid oratory and had tried hard to look like Daniel Webster, but his skin and two opened his eyes to the fact that the waging of war was a sober business and the polishing off of his sentences not nearly as important as the polishing off of the enemy.

He was still willing to die for the Union if there was need of it, but while his life was spared it was well to get on. The numerical importance of number one was a belief too firmly implanted in his nature to be overthrown by any patriotic aberration.

His own merits, which he was among the first to recognize, and the solid backing his father was able to give him, promotions. He had risen to the command of a regiment and when the war ended was greeted as a brigadier-general of volunteers along with a score of other anxious warriors who wished to carry the title of general back into civil life, for he was an admirable sort of a slylock, who seldom overlooked his pound of flesh, and he usually got all and a little more than was coming to him.

After the war he married and went west, where he resumed the practice of his profession, but he soon abandoned it for a commercial career. It was not long until he was ranked as one of the rich men of the state. Then he turned his attention to politics. He was twice elected to congress and served one term as governor. One of his daughters had married an Italian prince, a meek, prosaic little creature exactly five feet three inches tall. Another was engaged to an English earl, whose debts were a remarkable achievement for so young a man. His wife now divided her time between Paris and London. She didn't think much of New York, which had thought even less of her. He managed to see her once or twice a year. Any other man would have been superfluous.

There were moments, however, when he felt his life to be wholly unsatisfactory. He derived very little pleasure from all the luxury that had accumulated about him and which he accepted with a curious placid indifference. He would have liked the affection of his children, to have had them at home, and there was a remote period in his past when his wife had inspired him with a sentiment at which he could only wonder. He held it against her that she had not understood.

He lurched down solidly into the chair Oakley placed for him. "I hope you are comfortable here," he said kindly.

"Oh, yes," he still stood. "Sit down," said Cornish. "I don't, as a rule, believe in staying up after midnight to talk business, but I must start east tomorrow."

He slipped out of his chair and began to pace the floor with his hands thrust deep in his trousers pockets. "I want to talk over the situation here. I don't see that the road is ever going to make a dollar. I've an opportunity to sell it to the M. and N. Of course this is extremely confidential. It must not go any further. I am told they will discontinue it beyond this point, and of course they will either move the shops away or close them. He paused in his rapid walk. "It's too bad it never paid. It was the first thing I did when I came west. I thought it a pretty big thing then. I have always hoped it would justify my judgment, and it promised to be for awhile until the lumber interests played out. Now, what do you advise, Oakley? I want to get your ideas. You understand if I sell I won't lose much. The price offered will just about meet the mortgage I hold, but I guess the stockholders will come out at the little end of the horn."

Oakley understood exactly what was ahead of the stockholders if the road changed hands. Perhaps his face showed that he was thinking of this, for the general observed charitably:

"It's unfortunate, but you can't mix sentiment in a transaction of this sort. I'd like to see them all get their money back and more too."

His mental attitude toward the world was one of generous liberality, but he had such excellent control over his impulses that, while he always seemed about to embark in some large philanthropy, he had never been known to take even the first step in that direction. In short, he was hard and unemotional, but with a deceptive, unassuming kindness of manner which while it had probably never involved a dollar of his riches, had at divers times cost the unwary and the indiscreet much money.

"I am sure the road could be put on a paying basis," said Oakley. "Certain quite possible economies would do that. Of course you can't create business, there's just so much of it, and we get it all at last. But the shops might be made very profitable. I have secured a good deal of work for them and I shall secure more. I had intended to propose a number of reforms, but if you are going to sell, why, there's no use of going into the matter." He paused.

The general meditated in silence for a moment.

"I'd hate to sacrifice my interests if I thought you could even make the road pay expenses. Now, just what do you intend to do?"

"I'll get my order book and show you what's been done for the shops," said Oakley, rising with alacrity. "I have figured out the changes, too, and you can see at a glance just what I propose doing."

The road and the shops employed some 500 men, most of whom had their homes in Antioch. Oakley knew that if the property was sold it would practically wipe the town out of existence. The situation was full of interest for him. If Cornish approved and told him to go ahead with his reforms, it would be an opportunity such as he had never known.

He went into his own room, which opened off Cornish's, and got his order book and table of figures, which he had carried up from the office that afternoon.

He had taken a great deal of pains with his figures, and they seemed to satisfy Cornish that the road if properly managed was not such a hopeless proposition after all. Something might be done with it.

Oakley rose to his good esteem. He had liked him, and he was justifying his good opinion. He beamed benevolently on the young man and thawed out of his habitual reserve into a genial, ponderous frankness.

"You have done well," he said, glancing through the order book, with evident satisfaction.

"Of course," explained Oakley, "I am going to make a cut in wages this spring if you agree to it, but I haven't the figures for this yet." The general nodded. He approved of cuts on principle.

"That's always a wise move," he said. "Will they stand it?"

"They'll have to," And Oakley laughed rather nervously. He appreciated that his reforms were likely to make him very unpopular in Antioch. "They shouldn't object. If the road changes hands it will kill their town."

"I suppose so," agreed Cornish indifferently.

"And half a loaf is lots better than no bread," added Oakley. Again the general nodded his approval.

"What sort of shape is the shop in?" he asked after a moment's silence.

"Very good on the whole."

"I am glad to hear you say so. I spent over a hundred thousand dollars on the plant originally."

"Of course the equipment can hardly be called modern, but it will do for the sort of work for which I am bidding," Oakley explained.

"Well, it will be an interesting problem for a young man, Oakley. If you pull the property up it will be greatly to your credit. I was going to offer you another position, but we will let that go over for the present. I am very much pleased, though, with all you have done. Very much pleased, indeed. I go abroad in about two weeks. My youngest daughter is to be married in London to the Earl of Minchester. The title rolled right from the great man's lips. "So you'll have the right, if it is a fight, all to yourself. I'll see that Holloway does what you say. He's the only one you'll have to look to in my absence, but you won't be able to count on him for anything. He gets limp in a crisis. Just don't make the mistake of asking his advice."

"Id rather have no advice," interrupted Dan hastily, "unless it's yours," he added.

"I'll see that you are not bothered. You are the sort of fellow who will do better with a free hand, and that is what I intend you shall have."

"Thank you," said Oakley, his heart warming with the other's praise.

"I shall be back in three months, and then if your schemes have worked out

"You have done well," he said, at all as we expect, why, we can consider putting the property in better shape." (A part of Oakley's plan.)

"As you say, it's gone down so there won't be much but the right of way presently."

"I hope that eventually there'll be profits," said Oakley, whose mind was beginning to trench out into the future.

"I guess the stockholders will drop dead if we ever earn a dividend. That's the last thing they are looking forward to," remarked Cornish, dryly. "Will you leave a 6:30 call at the office for me? I forgot, and I must take the first train. Good-night."

"IT SAVED MY LIFE"

PRaise FOR A FAMOUS MEDICINE

Mrs. Willadsen Tells How She Tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound With Time.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words."

"Before I wrote to you, telling you how I felt, I had doctor for over two years, and spent lots of money on medicines besides, but it all failed to help me. My monthly periods had ceased and I suffered much pain with fainting spells, headache, backache and bearing-down pains, and I was so weak I could hardly keep around. As a last resort I decided to write you and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful that I did so, for following your instructions, which you sent me free of all charge, I became regular and in perfect health. Had it not been for you I would be in my grave to-day."

"I sincerely trust that this letter may lead every suffering woman in the country to write you for help as I did."

"When women are troubled with irregular or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of an organ, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion or nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, at once removes such troubles."

"No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. Refuse all substitutes."

"For 25 years Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, has under her direction, and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge." Address: Lynn, Mass.

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

The first outward sign of Contagious Blood Poison is a small sore or blister. As the poisonous virus becomes more firmly entrenched in the blood a red eruption appears on the body, the mouth and throat ulcerate, the hair begins to come out, glands in the neck and groin swell, copper colored spots appear on the breast, back, etc., and the unfortunate victim finds himself diseased from head to foot. Mercury and potash do not cure Contagious Blood Poison; they shut the disease up in the system and remove the outward symptoms for awhile, but when the treatment is left off the trouble returns. Then the system being weakened from the action of these strong minerals the disease makes more rapid headway than before. S. S. S. is the antidote for Contagious Blood Poison. It cures permanently and certainly by going down into the blood and removing every vestige of the virus. It is free from all minerals, and while purifying the blood it builds up the entire system by its fine tonic effects. S. S. S. destroys every particle of the poison and removes all danger of transmitting it to others. S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison because it is a perfect blood purifier. Book with instructions for self treatment and any medical advice free.
